Description	There are only three Swiss executive search companies operating in Japan: Egon Zehnder, Adecco and Gaipro. Our specialty is that we specifically cater to mid-sized Swiss & European companies. This is a market niche which we have built out in the last 4 years. In order to be successful, we have to maintain very good and close relations to Swiss & European companies, while at the same time carefully indentifying and interviewing candidates. Both companies and candidates alike choose Gaipro because we listen carefully to what they have to say instead of aiming for quick business. Executive search can be very challenging at the beginning but it is rewarding both personally and financially for people who are willing to learn and have the necessary drive.
